EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Jared joined Perkins & Co in 2003. In 2006 he became an audit shareholder, and in 2017 was named our new president. Prior to Perkins, he spent 10 years working for international accounting firm PricewaterhouseCoopers and three years as a CFO and controller in private industry.

Jared has experience planning and managing financial statement audits of companies ranging in size from startup to multi-national clients with revenues exceeding $750 million. He has an extensive understanding of technical accounting issues across a broad spectrum of industries. His experience includes nonprofit accounting, including A-133 engagements, statutory insurance accounting issues, business acquisition due diligence and related purchase accounting issues, employee benefit plan auditing, and internal control consulting, including SOX 404 engagements. In addition, his background in both public and private accounting gives Jared the experience and insight to serve closely-held businesses as a strategic advisor, helping business owners work through complicated business issues.

Furthermore, his background in public accounting and as a CFO and controller has given him the experience and insight into working with companies on the business issues they face.
